A company focused on providing workforce housing is about to make a big splash in West Texas.

According to a statement from Target Logistics, they plan to provide full-service living solutions in the Permian Basin for 200 employees.

The company announcement states they've been "awarded a contract by one of the world's largest independent oil and natural gas exploration and production companies to build and manage an accommodation facility."

They say they hope to have workers moved in by the beginning of 2016.
